2023 Legislative Priorities for Criminal Justice Reform in Maryland

The 2023 Maryland legislative session will begin on January 11 and Governor-elect Wes Moore will take office. At MAJR, we're hopeful that some fundamental improvements to our criminal justice system soon may become realities.

MAJR has developed a twelve-page booklet which you can read online by clicking here: 2023 Legislative Priorities for Criminal Justice Reform in Maryland. It describes MAJR's highest priorities: the creation of an independent ombudsman for Maryland's prisons; plans for decarceration, including a second look act, medical and geriatric parole; and eliminating the felony murder rule. You will also find recommendations concerning correctional education, expungement, juvenile justice, and other issues.

Please take a look! We welcome your feedback and we hope this booklet will serve as a reminder that the opportunities for change are greatest in the next three months. We also intend to distribute it to every members of the Maryland General Assembly during the first days of the 2023 session.

You will hear from us again soon with specific actions you can take in 2023 to contact your legislators and to help with much needed improvements to Maryland's criminal justice system! Thanks again for your support.
